

Do you find your self being in...

the I real estate World

- I worked much harder than I expected to generate the income I desired.
- I realized that changes in the economy and other forces beyond my control could devastate my business almost overnight.
- When the market fluctuated, so did my income!

has it Struck You...

As long as your income is based solely on your personal production, you are limited. There are just so many hours in a day and so many transactions you could manage at one time.

You are stuck in the “I” real estate world, where it’s all up to you.

the Power of We™

at Nextage Realty we See it Differently

In the “We” world of real estate, you’re growing your business every time someone joins your team, every time you mentor someone, every time you motivate a teammate. The powerful Nextage business model gives you – not just your broker – the ability to build a business and generate residual income beyond your own personal production.

As the production of your team increases, your business earns more and more...regardless of what you do personally. Even after you retire, you continue to reap the rewards of all your hard work. Your personal production may stop, but your business never stops working for you, generating sales bonus income on your team’s production.
